VILL make his present season at the stable of the subscriber near Winchester, Va., at $60 the season and $100 to insure, with $1 cash to the groom in every case. The season will expire on the 1st of July next, at which time the money for his services will be due and payment expected. For the insurance, the money will be claimed as soon as the mare is ascertained to be in foal or transferred. All persons sending mares will be required to send their notes with them for the season, payable on the 1st of July, and for the insurance as soon as the mare is ascertained to be in foal or transferred; and if a mare insured should not prove with foal, the note will be returned. Excellent pasturage for mares will be furnished at 50 ets a week, or they will be plontifully fed on grain at $10 per month, pasturage included. Black servants boarded gratis while attending the mares. The expenses of keeping the mare must be paid before taking them away.

Sarpedon in color, is a rich brown, 16 hands high, of the strongest conformation, and the most beautiful action; his back and loin, so remarkably strong, that he was thought to be master of 15 stone—his blood of the purest and richest in England, and of entirely different crosses to any of our native mares; he possesses more of the Membrine and Benningbrough blood than any other horse ever imported, and a cross of either is particularly admired in our mother land, and for preed and stoutness it is universally admired. Yery few of Sarpedon's get have been trained, and yet nearly all have been winners from one to four mile heats.
